

CASTLEBAR MAN'S SAD END
TRAGIC AFFAIR AT THE CURRAGH
CASTLEBAR MAN'S BROTHER LOST ON TITANIC

An inquest was held last evening at the Military Hospital, Curragh Camp, by Dr Kenna, touching the death of Private John T. Young of the Connaught Rangers.

Sergeant Thomas Duffy said the deceased was about 33 and unmarried. .... As storeman, the deceased slept in the store by himself, and on entering yesterday (Thursday) morning witness found him lying on his right side about 18 feet from the bed. He saw the carbine examined that morning, and an empty cartridge case extracted from the bore of the rifle. Deceased had been worried about a brother of his who was on the Titanic, and who had, he believed been drowned.....

The jury found deceased died of gun-shot wounds, self-inflicted, whilst of unsound mind.....

Western People 18th May 1912