Preparing for the future now

Young Gaelic Player Pathway

Introduction

The purpose of the player pathway initiative is to help coaches, managers, teachers and parents who play an active role in the development of young gaelic footballers and hurlers.

It should be noted that these are guidelines and recommendations for coaches, mentors, teachers and parents that may be used with a degree of flexibility. They are not written in stone as players grow, develop and learn at different rates through their lives. This is a general guide to bear in mind when working with players.

This document is intended to give young players the best opportunity to succeed at whatever level they may play and reach their full potential “doing the right thing, at the right time and in the right way”. It provides a framework for the development of skills, physical focus and game sense capacities that coaches can follow stage by stage.

Young Gaelic Players Pathway

The five key stages in the pathway are:

Stage	Approximate Age	Emphasis
Learning to master the ball	4 – 6 years	Should be about fun and participation with key emphasis on physical literacy and core movement skills with the ball.
Learning to use the ball well	7 – 9 years	Major skills learning phase where all the basic skills in football and hurling are learned
Learning to play together	10 – 12 years	Emphasis on understanding how to play and work together as a team
Learning about positions	13 – 15 years	The principles of play and applying good game sense
Learning to perform	16 – 18 years	Combining all aspects of performance including decision making, higher physical demands of the game and coping with competition

Learning to master the ball 4 – 6 years

Player characteristics

- Children of this age are self-centred and co-operation is largely absent
- At this age many still think that the ball is their own ‘toy’, so they will try to run with the ball and score rather than pass
- They will respond to partner work and skills practise for a short time. This helps introduce them to team work and co-operation.
- These children will only watch the ball. They cannot and will not look for space to run into.
- They usually enjoy being asked questions and this should give the coach plenty of opportunities to check for understanding.
- When their team is not in possession they find it difficult to understand defending a goal. To them they are merely chasing a ball.
- They respond best to target games and races (hitting, throwing and running).

Learning to use the ball well 7 - 9 years

Player characteristics

- They will begin to look up when in possession and start choosing options [ e.g. passing rather than shooting]
- They will have difficulty tackling opponents but will hit the ball away from them and attempt to block any shots.
- They have a tendency to stand back in hurling so encourage them to get close to the opponents.
- Use questions to challenge and introduce decision making.
- Players will beg for a game at every opportunity, yet their technique is best improved through individual, paired and small group work. This is an ideal time to use the 'Whole-Part-Whole' approach to some sessions where the coach starts a game, stops it after ten minutes, works on one technique for a short period then restarts the game.
- Coaches need to focus on positive feedback, this is the age where drop-outs occur if children think they are no good
- At this age players will try to win the game not only by scoring but also by attempting to deny the opposition the opportunity to score.
- They will also begin to understand the need to change the direction of a run or a pass to be more effective and they will begin to grasp the idea that a player may need support from behind and to the side as well as in front.
- Coaches should continue to run small-sided games and conditioned games, one of the better games is called 'Over the River' and tennis.
- At this age players must also get used to attacking the ball [ i.e. running and not stopping] and breaking tackles.
- First critical period of speed development

For example: Getting through the traffic, 4 v 4 (zoned, no goalie), Line game. Full-Invasion The core objective in invasion games is to move into an opponent's territory in order to score. To achieve this objective the players must maintain possession of the ball, create and use space and attack a 'goal'. For example: 4 v 4 (two touch), 5 v 5 (wide man).

Learning to play together 10 - 12 years

Player characteristics

- Players will compete with greater intensity against each other
- At this age players will try to win the game not only by scoring but also by attempting to deny the opposition the opportunity to score.
- They will begin to understand the need to change the direction of a run or a pass to be more effective and they will begin to grasp the idea that a player may need support from behind and to the side as well as in front.
- Coaches should continue to run small-sided games and condition them to solve problems.
- During training, these players must always feel part of the session. Coaches must be ready to pay as much attention to them as to other established players and always work to improve their skills [ one-to-one coaching may be needed].
- Coaches must be quick to address the problem of one or two players dominating play and preventing others from developing their skills during games.
- Many players at this age fail to recognise the need to attack the ball and prefer to wait for the ball. If this is allowed to persist, that player will find it increasingly difficult to change his/her instincts.
- Training needs to be moderately increased at this stage.
- Players are now ready to develop general strength through their own body weight and core exercises.

Learning about positions 13 - 15 years

Player characteristics

- While players in this stage may have the same chronological age they may differ significantly in terms of biological age [ i.e. one may be more physically developed than another].
- The onset of puberty usually occurs during the early stages of this cycle. Aerobic and strength programmes should be individualised or grouped according to their Peak Height Velocity (PHV). N.B. Only trained coaches to undertake this training.
- Broad base skills and sport specific skills.
- Advanced technical skill development/skills developed under pressure.
- Fitness with the ball in skills drills.
- Gain an understanding of the principles of attack and defence through grids and small sided games.
- Players can be introduced to psychological training through games that promote concentration and better decision making.

Learning to perform 16 - 18 years

Player characteristics

- During this phase players begin to reach their physical peak and those slow developers begin to catch up with their peers.
- Encourage ideals of self-awareness and self-help within players.
- At this stage a Functional Movement Screening (conducted by a physio) should be carried out on each player and the results along with their Critical Success Factors (CSFs) identified by each player in their Self-Assessment Profile should form the basis of their Personal Development Plan (PDP).
- As a result of the above each player should have a PDP, a component of which should be an individualised conditioning programme developed and delivered by a S&C coach. Each player should be committed to their programme, as they will have had an input into it through their Self-Assessment Profile.
- Advanced technical skill development/Skills developed under pressure.
- Understand the principles of game play, tactics, and game sense.
- Accept that the team is paramount and accept their role within the team structure.
- Encourage positive lifestyle and build concepts of teamship and leadership.
- Instil concepts of mental toughness and calmness under pressure (winning behaviours).
- Encourage flexibility and fine-tune the generic skills to play in a variety of positions.
- Players should be encouraged to embrace positive life-skills i.e. time-management and to take control of their own athletic development.
